Peab builds new ice skating rink in Fruängen

Peab has been commissioned to build a new ice skating rink, Mälarhöjdens IP, in Fruängen south of Stockholm. The customer is the real estate department of the city of Stockholm and the contract is worth SEK 114 million.

The project entails construction of a modern ice skating rink with standing room for 150 spectators, six standard-sized locker rooms and two smaller, flexible locker rooms for referees. The ice skating rink facility will hold a garage for an ice machine, heated storage rooms and club and meeting rooms.

“As community builders we’re really happy to be part of building the new ice skating rink. It’s meaningful to participate in something that promotes activities for young people and brings people together,” says Lars Enroth, Region Manager Peab.

The project is a traditional contract containing some turnkey contract parts. Construction will begin in the coming days and is expected to be completed by the end of March 2024.

The project will be order registered in the first quarter 2023.
